EXPERIENCE

Marco specialises in representing energy and infrastructure clients all over Asia and the rest of the world in a wide range of issues, including regulatory and general counseling, the negotiation of contracts and agreements related to project development, and financing and construction, among others.

Marco has represented a wide diversity of players in the energy industry ranging from utilities, independent power producers, energy cooperatives, project developers, financiers, and power purchasers, to manufacturers, oil and gas companies, retailers, contractors, lenders, borrowers, investors, traders, and governments, among others.

Marco's energy experience extends to virtually all types of energy projects, including conventional fossil-fueled, gas and coal fired, combined-heat-and-power, renewable and alternative energy (especially wind, solar, biomass, and geothermal).

Marco is a dual UK and Italian qualified lawyer, and also registered foreign lawyer (England & Wales and Italy) in Hong Kong.
